Questions 2 thru 4

.....during the shortest of the following 3 periods: since January 31, 2010, in the last 180 days, or during the time you owned the animal

If YES is answered in any of questions 2 thru 4 then the owner MUST put details on the reverse of this form, date & sign after each statement made!

Owner's Declaration – ABSOLUTELY CANNOT BE SIGNED IN BLACK INK

Transient Agent Declaration – completed by the buyer/shipper of the animals, the from date (start date of care) should be dated the same as the date the owner signed the EID and the to date (end date of care) is the date they were shipped and/or delivered to the plant. Complete all required information of the transient agent and sign (no black ink).

Note: A transient agent is a person who purchases, transports and/or cares for equine destined for immediate slaughter and is responsible for the care of equine immediately destined for slaughter. A transient agent declaration is applicable for only short term responsibility for an animal destined for slaughter in a short time period (the time needed to assemble, schedule and move to slaughter) and may not be used in lieu of an ownership declaration. Individual equine animals held for reasons and time periods other than short term movement to slaughter shall be presented for slaughter with completed (owner declaration signed) EIDs.

Picture

Attach, by stapling to this document, a single page containing the name (if applicable) of the equine and clear printed pictures of the animal showing each of the views in the diagram (shown on EID). The pictures should be large enough to see the detail required. The views shall be printed on a standard 8.5x11" page. Ensure that at least 90% of the picture contains the side or portion of the animal shown in the part of the diagram (shown on EID) to be depicted. Take close ups of any visible acquired marks such as brands and attach. Owners, please ensure that the written description and pictures attached agree and then sign and date the picture page(s).

Alternatives to Written and Picture Identification

1. The written description information and as a substitute for pictures, the silhouette on the EID, is preferably completed by a licensed Veterinarian, individual authorized by an Animal Pedigree Act recognized pedigree registry or recognized by Equine Canada to issue identification passports or brand inspectors employed provincially.
2. For pedigree registered animals that have official registration papers with picture and written description identification, a legible color copy of the registration papers may be attached to this document.
3. For non pedigree registered equine with an official passport, the passport may be attached
